

It was with him that she experienced anal sex for the first time.

It wasn't sudden or rough.

Every movement was guided by his calm voice, his patience.

He led her, explained, reassured her. She felt safe.

No fear, no pain. Only trust.

And when he felt she was ready, he gave in completely. He didn't hold back.

He left everything on her—and in her.

It was a total surrender. Of the body, yes.

But maybe, in that moment, a little of the heart, too.